A SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT.

UMBULL, OF THE YALE CREW, AND COL-ONEL CHARLES M. COIT, DROWNED IN NEW LONDON HARBOR—LOST BY TRYING TO SAVE A BOY FROM DROWNING,

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 3, 1873.

David Trumbull, who pulled oar number seven in Yale boat in the recent Yale-Harxard University e, and Colonel Charles M. Coit, treasurer of the lsea Savings Bank, Norwich, were drowned in New don Harbor, midway between the Pequot House Fort Trumbull, at five o'clock this afternoon, er the following circumstances:—A party, con-ing of the persons named above, and rge D. Coit, treasurer of the Dime Sav-s Bank, Norwich, a brother of the deceased, Thompson, of New York, and the young sons of two Coits were sailing in the harbor in the sloop ht Charles. While running before the wind up the bor the son of Colonel Coit fell overboard. His her and Mr. Trumbull immediately sprang into the ter after him. The oars were thrown to the two n; but being excellent swimmers they fet them ft by. Some minutes elapsed before the yacht uld be brought around, and when it did reach the perilled party George Coit jumped overboard, seized child, and both were drawn on board. The yacht s meanwhile running on; and when again brought at the spot where Coit and Trumbull were bot l sunk—the latter out of sight—while the body of former, which had floated a few feet beneath the face of the water, was hauled on board, and search Trumbull's body was instituted by men from the shore, but up to this hour (nine P. M.) without ccess.

ATTEMPTED RESUSCITATION.

The yacht meanwhile came up to the city and five ysicians were summoned, whose combined efforts, ntinued for nearly two hours, were insufficient to suscitate the body of Colonel Coit, and it was given the undertaker, who prepared it for burial, and it s afterward conveyed to his family in Norwich.

SKETCH OF COLONEL COIT.

Colonel Coit was a most estimable citizen, and dur-the war commanded the Eighth regiment of Con-cticut volunteers. He was Postmaster of Norwich ring a portion of Grant's first term. His age was out forty.

SKETCH OF MR. TRUMBULL.

Mr. David Trumbull, who had been the guest of Mr. rge D. Coit since the regatta, was twenty-five s of age and the son of the Rev. David Trumbull, Valparaiso, Chili. He graduated in the academic partment of Yale in '76 and was in the class at in Yale Theological School. He was starboard ke and the oldest member of the Yale crew, and considered one of the best men in the boat. It is eved that the men were chilled by remaining in water so long, and were stricken with cramps. affair has created intense excitement here.

[illegible] COIT.

The result was three grains of morphia, enou druggist said, to kill five. The Sheriff and cutor have kept this matter secret until the writing.

CREEDMOOR.

THE EIGHTH REGIMENT IN CAMP ON RANGE—PRACTICE FOR THE MARKS
BADGE.

The large open space near the entrance
Creedmoor Range and to the west of the lon firing points has during the past week been the spot in the enclosure owned by the National Rif ciation. A large quantity of canvas was spre the ground and a small forest of poles suddenly up. The habitués of the range were puzzled b unexpected appearances, and speculation was r cerning their purpose. A few days ago, howev mystery was solved by the appearance of a some banner on the tallest pole, bearing the "Camp Robinson." The poles, canvas and were designed for the construction of 150 tents, which the Eighth regiment of this city their quarters yesterday, with the intent remaining until next Monday. The re began to assemble at the State A Thirty-fifth street and Seventh avenue, an Colonel Scott gave the command, "Forward, m at two P. M., there were about three hundred a men in line. All the baggage of the regim been forwarded to Creedmoor on the previous that the men were unencumbered and pres fine military appearance as they marched Thirty-fourth street ferry. On the other special train took them to Creedmoor.

IN CAMP.

On their arrival at Creedmoor they were m to the camp and assigned to quarters. The t the Colonel and members of the staff front on ington avenue," a broad thoroughfare runnin the western side of the camp. The other stre eastward from the avenue, and are called respe Farragut, Dix, Grant, Ellsworth, Hancock, Kearney and Anderson. The men immediat voted their attention to the arrangement of niture in their tents, with the exception of three marksmen who were ordered to pro once to the 200 yards firing points, to commen practice for the Marksman's Badge.

BEFORE THE BUTTS.

During the practice Captain Edward Bark regimental inspector of rifle practise, took ch this detachment. The shooting was at 200 yards and was rendered pretty difficult by a wind," which blew up the range. The followi succeeded in winning the badge before the beat for "supper formation:"—Corporal S. R.

THE OLD CHURCHES IN NEW ENGLAND. It is a curious fact—a fact which different readers will be disposed to account for in different ways, but still a fact—that the old, original, Calvinistic churches in this old historical portion of New England are almost all now in the hands of that denomination which is furthest removed, in faith, from the early Calvinistic Congregationalism of New England. Not only is the first church in Plymouth Unitarian, and the first church in Dorchester Unitarian, and the first church in Boston Unitarian, but, when we come nearer home, to the ancient county of Essex, we find the following oldest churches in the following oldest settlements now supporting Unitarian preaching. We give them with the dates of their origin: First Church, Salem, 1629; First Church, Gloucester, 1642; First Church, North Andover, 1645; First Church, Haverhill, 1645; First Church, Beverly, 1667; Second Church, Marblehead, 1716; East Church, Salem, 1717; First Church, Newburyport, 1725. This is a curious list, and it would be interesting to note how far the same rule obtains in other counties and parts of New England. There are, in Massachusetts, about forty Unitarian societies which date their origin before A. D. 1700, of which the oldest is that of Plymouth, organized at Leyden in 1602. Some of these are (1630) Boston, Watertown, Dorchester, Roxbury; (1632) Duxbury; (1634) Scituate; (1635) Hingham; (1636) Concord, Sudbury; (1637) Taunton; (1638) Dedham, Sandwich: (1639) Barnstable, Quincy; and (1638), Portsmouth, N. ASPASIA. All educated women, and many men, feel an interest in the character of Aspasia, who has been much misrepresented and generally misunderstood even by students of Grecian history. She has generally been portrayed as what the Athenians called a hetaira, or woman of the outcast class, which she by no means was, and was never so considered. Recent investigations have placed the most remarkable woman of antiquity in a truer and better light. She was born at Miletus, a city of Asia Minor, situated in the northern part of Caria, but politically belonging to the Ionian Confederacy. She was, therefore, a foreigner, and the fact that in Athens all foreign women were equally disesteemed, and that their children, even when born in wedlock, were always regarded as illegitimate, has given her an odiously false reputation. She was not at all conventional, for conventionality demanded that Athenian matrons should remain within the seclusion of their own homes. After her marriage to Pericles, who had parted from his first wife with her own full consent, her house became the resort of all the learned and distinguished men—Socrates among the rest—of the polite capital. Her husband, whom the Athenian law, strictly construed, would not have recognized as such, was honored with the title of Olympian Jove, and she was designated as Juno. Her eloquence and familiarity with politics were extraordinary, and her great gifts naturally excited envy. The comic and other authors have done her gross injustice. Hermippus, the comedian, profited by a brief irritation of the Athenians against Pericles to accuse his wife of impiety; but her husband's eloquence procured a triumphant acquittal of the malicious charges. Her influence over Pericles, though necessarily strong, has evidently been exaggerated, and even caricatured. Aristophanes has declared that she was the cause of the Samian and Peloponnesian wars; but Plutarch vindicates her from the calumny, and Thucydides, who furnishes minute details of the latter contest, does not mention her name in connection with it. Her marriage to Lysicles, a cattle dealer, after Pericles's death, has been used to her disadvantage, and an attempt made to show her mental and moral decline. But Lysicles was a considerable personage, and cattle dealing was not only a lucrative but a dignified and important calling in ancient Greece, and through her he rose to eminence. The life of Aspasia needs to be newly written. [New York Times.

THE SIFTING OF PETER.

A FOLK SONG.

"Behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat.—St. Luke, xxii. 31.

In St. Luke's Gospel we are told
How Peter in the days of old
Was sifted;
And now, though ages intervene,
Sin is the same, while time and scene
Are shifted.

Satan desires us, great and small,
As wheat, to sift us, and we all
Are tempted;
Not one, however rich or great,
Is by his station or estate
Exempted.

No house so safely guarded is
But he, by some device of his,
Can enter;
No heart hath armor so complete
But he can pierce with arrows fleet
Its centre.

For all at last the cock will crow
Who hear the warning voice, but go Unheeding,
Till thrice and more they have denied
The Man of Sorrows, crucified
And bleeding.

One look of that pale, suffering face
Will make us feel the deep disgrace
Of weakness;
We shall be sifted till the strength
Of self-conceit be changed at length
To meekness.

Wounds of the soul, though healed, will ache;
The reddening scars remain, and make Confession;
Lost innocence returns no more;
We are not what we were before Transgression.

But noble souls, through dust and heat,
Rise from disaster and defeat
The stronger,
And conscious still of the divine
Within them, lie on earth supine
No longer.

The Postal Law.

A number of important changes in the postal law went into effect May 1st. They are as follows:

The postage on all second class matter is 2 cents per pound.

Periodicals bound in board, cloth, leather or other substantial binding, such as distinguish printed books for preservation from periodical publications, cannot pass in the mail at the pound rates.

The limit of weight to four pounds is waived in the case of a single book weighing more than that limit. Circulars can be addressed, dated, signed, and typographical errors corrected in writing, and the postage will be 1 cent for each two ounces, instead of 1 cent for one ounce as heretofore.

Proof-sheets and corrected proof sheets, and manuscript copy accompanying the same, may be sent in the mail at the rate of 1 per cent. for each two ounces. (This provision does not admit manuscript unaccompanied by the proof-sheet.)

There may be placed upon the cover or blank leaves of any book or of any printed matter of the third class a simple manuscript dedication or inscription that does not partake of the nature of a personal correspondence.

Upon any package of matter of the fourth class the sender may write or print his own name and address, preceded by the word "from," and there may also be written or printed the number and names of the articles enclosed; and the sender thereof may write or print upon or attach to any such articles by tag or label, a mark, number, name or letter, for the purpose of identification.
